SATURDAY, MARCH 26, 1881 Races.

An improvised race meeting came off at Kapioani Park on Saturday last. The attendance of the public was very meagre but those who did take the risk of catching the small pox by mingling in a crowd were rewarded by some good sport and had their enjoyment enhanced by splendid weather. The chief event of the afternoon was the pacing race between Defiance and Dan Rice for the stake of $500, to be decided by the best three heats out of five. This was won by Defiance who, as will be seen by the record below, only lost the first heat. There can be no doubt that Dan Rice is the faster horse of the two, but as he insisted on breaking badly within the first quarter on each occasion he was no match for the steady going Defiance who went round at a capital pace without a single break A trotting match had been got up between Bismarck and Dolly Varden, the first heat of which came off before the 3d of the pacing races. The mare was the favorite, being backed at 2 to 1, before the first two heats. She won the first but was beaten in the second, although Bismark showed himself decidedly lame. After this result the betting was changed and "even on the three legged horse" was the word. The decisive heat showed Dolly Varden again at the rear; she was in too skittish a humour to win, although undoubtedly faster than her opponent. This race was followed by a running match for a purse of $200, for which Mr. Gibbs entered True Blue and Mr. Hales a roan mare. For this race, which was a mile dash, a good start was effected and the grey took the lead and kept it for a long way. When opposite the stand the roan began to pull on her competitor and passing her before the corner was reached won in a canter. The following is a summary of the several Destroyers of Contagion.

Modern science has let in a flood of light upon the cause of many illnesses, and the nature of the contagia upon which their propagation de-pends. Not only has the cause of disease been traced to agents external to the body, but the exact form of these disturbing organisms has been pointed out. They consist of minute particles, probably in most or all cases of a vegetable nature; they are therefore non-gaseous, and in no respect comport themselves like gaseous bodies. The contagious principle of fever is a corkscrew-like spirilla; in other diseases it appears as a large motionless rod; i others as a solid body, ragged and nearly round. These bodies float in the atmosphere in clouds, and when inhaled, or when they come in contact with abraded surfaces, inoculation occurs, and the disease is of the type peculiar to the nature of the specific poison. The bodies start in the cir-culation a morbid chemical action, or serve as a ferment, which disturbs or devitalizes the blood, and thus produces most serious illnesses. Malarial lover, measles, diptheria, scarlet fever emali-pox, and many other alarming action of these curious external agents. So long as the nature of the noxious material was unknown, the chemical agents, as disinfectants, deodorants, antiseptics, etc., were selected to satisfy the most various and dissimilar theories as to its nature and properties; but sin a be
